

CALIBRACHOA

OVERVIEW

A tender perennial that produces mounds of foliage, growing only 3 to 9 inches (7.5-23 cm.) tall, along trailing stems and flowers in shades of violet, blue, pink, red, magenta, yellow, bronze and white.

WATER

Provide regular watering, every week in the growing season, and more if you grow it in a container. Allow the soil to dry out completely between waterings

LIGHT

Prefers at least six hours of full sun, though they can tolerate partial shade.

SOIL

Does well in moist but well-drained, organically rich soil in full sun. They do not tolerate high pH soils.